THE GROWTH OF THE CITY.

What is known as outside property, within the limits of Ogden, has not made an advance in price corresponding with close-in lots. This in particular is true of irrigated acreage which has not been broken up into lots.

There are many inviting investments in these garden spots or small farms which will be made available for building purposes as the population grows and more elbow room is demanded.

Ogden is expanding in every direction and acreage which a few years ago seemed too distant to be encroached upon by the building up process of home-making, is now being considered as prospective building sites.

I. L. REYNOLDS OF THE WEBER CLUB

In the business community, no one was better known than I. L. Reynolds, secretary of the Weber Club, whose sufferings ended at an early hour this morning.

For a number of years, Lester Reynolds has been in failing health, but he had the courage and grit to carry his burden without complaint. He was cheerful though he knew life's rainbows had faded and gone; he was obliging and gracious at that time in the struggle with the Grim Reaper when those of less heart become soured and morose. His constant determination told the story of a soldier facing the enemy undaunted, ready to battle on so long as heart and soul remained united.

When the final summons came, he went home—the home to which we all are going. It is the same story over and over. First one and then another, and finally the knock is heard at our own door. It is the inevitable.

BOYS AT A BANQUET

No more worth-while banquet has been given in Ogden than that of last evening at the Weber Club, when thirty boys were the guests of the members of the Rotary Club.

The object of having boy guests was to extend a good influence to the young people of this city.

"When I was a boy, how I would have delighted in an event of that kind," said a bystander, as he saw the youngsters assembling. "When I was a boy, no one gave thought of me, except my parents, whose exactions were many."

"My father," said a Rotarian, "was a lover of horses, and I recall with what infinite care he watched after the colts. It was an unforgivable crime to allow a fiery young animal to runaway, or to improperly apply the lash to a newly harnessed animal. Every effort was directed to caring for the colt. We do not give half the attention to our boys that my father gave to his young horses."

There is a lesson for all of us. The boy, with big eyes and heart, too often looks out on a world with but little companionship or sympathy, and, if he becomes cold and unresponsive to precept, he is pushed to one side and given a bad label.

Forgetting that the boy of today is the man of tomorrow, the boy is allowed to drift and a percentage becomes the flotsam and jetsam cast upon the shores where the wreckage of life is found. Better do as the Rotarians are doing. Better convey to the boys a note of sympathy, a word of cheer, a message of considerate regard. Better draw the boys close to the hearts of men and, with grown ups as exemplars, send the youngsters along with hope, with laughter, with an inspiring vision.

TEACHING US HOW TO LIVE

In sickness, curing is a slow process, and in this field the medical man has much to learn, but in preventing disease the men who have diverted their time to prophylactics, have a wonderful field in which advancement is being made by leaps and bounds.

The Standard has received from Dr. Heber J. Sears of the University of Utah, a short statement as to what may be done in preventing disease, and this tells of the "ounce of prevention."

Time was when education was limited to the few centered on subjects of questionable value. Only yesterday did we wake up to the fact that all education should fit the student for the life he is to lead and the work he is to do. This conception gave birth to the splendid movement along lines of vocational training.

Now, with our broader vision, we know that unless an individual is physically efficient he cannot be mentally efficient and the day is coming when health knowledge will rank first among the qualifications of every well educated person.

When science gains the mastery over a disease, we account it a brilliant achievement, but the saner policy is to prevent disease rather than cure it; so the University proposes, through its department of hygiene and preventive medicine, to come to the rescue of all who are interested and there is no more fertile soil to be found than in the homes of the layman.

The science of keeping well, from this on, will be substituted for the science of making well.

Do you know that chilling and exposure to cold lowers your vitality, making it easy for disease germs to attack you? Clothe yourself properly. Sleep in well ventilated rooms and never neglect what appears to be a "common cold."

Do you know that you cannot have typhoid fever unless you swallow typhoid germs? See that your milk supply, water sup-

Speculators Refuse To Heed Warning and Crash Comes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The recent break in the New York stock market was due to "unbridled speculation," Governor Harding of the federal reserve board, said in a letter tonight to Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who had asked for a direct explanation of the price crash.

Speculators took no heed of warning issued by the board and by the federal reserve bank at New York, that reserves were declining and that a halt must be called, Mr. Harding said, and the speculative movement continued. These circumstances, he added, then forced the New York bank to call the attention of re-discounting banks to the situation, in order that demands of regular customers for call money in handling commercial transactions might be protected.

The board had made the specific announcement, Mr. Harding said, that it would not sanction "any policy which would require federal reserve banks to withhold credit demanded by commerce and industry for the processes of production and distribution in order to enable member banks to furnish cheap money for speculative purposes."

Relative to the board's position when the market decline was evident, he explained that in normal circumstances, one means of checking it would have been to advance discount rates. This was not considered practicable, however, Mr. Harding said, because the government had marketed more than $21,000,000,000 in Liberty bonds, a substantial portion of which was sold to persons who were paying for them out of savings or accrued income. Such action would have worked a hardship, the board believed.

"The high rates for call money," he continued, "were in themselves clear indication of the strained position into which the unbridled speculation had thrown the stock market. A readjustment was rendered inevitable unless the resources of the federal reserve banks were to be indirectly drawn upon for stock market purposes."

Kansas Mine Coal To Be Distributed Only Within State

TOPEKA, Kans., Nov. 19.—A more hopeful attitude was taken by state officials today regarding Gov. Henry K. Allen's campaign in the Kansas mining district to get the miners to return to work under a state receivership, following a telephone conversation this evening with the governor. It was stated he said the meetings held today, while not producing any actual results, were more encouraging than those held at an informal conference with the members of the supreme court. It was reported tonight that the conference resulted in the following informal understanding of the lines on which the receivership is to be conducted:

Kansas mine coal to be distributed for Kansas use only, during the period of the strike;

A new wage scale, if the result of the negotiations is to be effective on the date miners resume work;

Fees allowed receivers and receivership expenses are to be held to a minimum by the supreme court.

ply and food are kept free from these germs. Moreover, be sure to always wash your hands before eating.

Do you know that, with the approach of cold weather, the germs that cause pneumonia get busy and reap a rich harvest among those who expose or neglect themselves? For every death from pneumonia in August, we can expect 120 in September, 190 in October, 280 in November, 450 in December, 560 in January, 480 in February and 540 in March. "Beware the Ides of March." Most pneumonias begin with a cold; and a neglected cold frequently means pneumonia later. The "flu" seldom kills, but if you neglect yourself when you have the flu, pneumonia usually sets in and you die of pneumonia or of a combination of the two.

Do you know that bad teeth give rise to disease in many other parts of the body; that most heart diseases, rheumatism and stomach troubles are traceable directly to bad teeth? Have the dentist go over your teeth twice a year. Learn to use a tooth brush properly.

Do you know that in this land of plenty, many children are undernourished? Not for want of sufficient food, but for want of the right kind of food in the right proportion, taken at the proper intervals. We call this "malnutrition," and it is responsible for much of the failure in school, on the playground and at work. Many are only fifty per cent efficient. Be a whole man, not a half man.

The University Extension Division will mail expert printed matter and will reply to inquiries on any subject pertaining to disease prevention, nourishment, etc., upon application.

This decision to directly aid the people in avoiding disease is one of the best moves made by any institution of learning and should bring noticeable results.

Preventive medicine and the safeguarding of the well from disease is the greatest labor doctors of today can undertake.

Reaching down into our schools and discovering the threatening defects and weaknesses of the children will prolong life and give to this country a greater efficiency in every endeavor; and entering our homes and inquiring as to how we live will lead to warding off a big percentage of the aches and pains which are the symptoms of impaired health.

Like Mystery Yarn? You Bettcha! Well, Go And See "Vicky Van"

Ethel Clayton's New Photoplay a Thriller From Start to Finish.

From the records of past picture productions it is evident that the well told detective story is exceedingly popular with the great majority of the reading public. The same obtains of the mystery play picture. The Famous Players-Lasker Corporation has offered a number of stories on the screen which dealt with the detection of crime or some mysterious occurrence which formed the cause celebre of the drama. And always they have achieved popularity.

"The House of Silence," with Wallace Reid, was one; "The Mysterious Miss Terry," was another; "The Devil Stone," was a third; Now comes Ethel Clayton in a new Paramount picture, "Vicky Van," from a novel by Carolyn Wells, the well known writer of detective fiction, which will be shown at the Alhambra theatre next Saturday only.

This was recently issued in book form and was widely read. It is one of the Fleming Stone series, wherein the astute sleuth copes with a serious and perplexing problem. Miss Clayton plays two roles and is the pivot on which the big mystery runs.

"No one who cares at all for reading or the drama," says Robert G. Vignola, Miss Clayton's director, "can fail to enjoy a good mystery story. I do not mean the penny dreadful type, but one wherein the wits of the reader or spectator are challenged by an apparently insoluble problem—the sort of tale that Doyle made popular with 'Sherlock Holmes.' Marion Fairfax did the scenario. Chas. Schoenbaum was cameraman."

Hansen, at Newdale, Idaho, Sunday afternoon from asthma, arrived here this morning and the funeral services were held in the Fourth ward chapel. Interment was in the City cemetery.

Mrs. Hansen was the widow of a late Christian Hansen of this city and was a pioneer. She was born in Sweden in 1843. She became a convert to the Mormon faith in her youth, and emigrated to Utah in 1858. She made her home in Brigham City until a few years ago, when she took up her residence with her son in Idaho.

Mrs. Hansen was one of the prominent pioneer workers of the Fourth ward and was an active member of the Relief society for a number of years.

Mrs. Hansen was the mother of eleven children, five of whom survive. They are N. P. Hansen, of Salt Lake; Ephraim Hansen, Logan; James Hansen, Randolph; Alma Hansen, Salt Lake; and Lester Hansen, Newdale, Idaho.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF. Men and women suffering from backache, rheumatic pains, stiff and swollen joints, lameness and soreness will be glad to read how one woman found relief from kidney and bladder trouble. Mrs. G. Hyde, Homestead, Mich., writes: "I have been troubled with weak kidneys, and several times in the last ten years I had that terrible backache and tired out feeling, scarcely able to do my work. After taking Kidney Pills made me feel like a new person." A. R. McIntyre Drug Co. Advertisement.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without your or your physician's knowledge of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
